Tiger Basketball –Women's Style

After one season as the new kid on the block, women's basketball is set for the 1976-77 season, which should be a good one for Tiger followers.

For during the 1975-76 roundball campaign, the first for the lady cagers, Mary Kennerty King guided the women's contingent to a very respectable 13-11 record and a trip to the AIAW regionals.

And 1976-77 should be another year of improvement for the lady Tigers.

Annie Tribble, who guided Anderson College to three consecutive national junior college championships, has taken over the reins of the basketball program at her alma mater, to allow Mrs. King time to concentrate on the women's tennis program on a full-time basis.

With three straight national titles under her belt, Mrs. Tribble looks for good things at Tigertown, but maybe not a national championship right away.

"I think that we will have a good group to start with but a national title might be asking a little too much in the first year," said the highly successful Tribble.

Returning from the '75-76 Clemson squad are five of the top six scorers to form a base and Tribble has added some recruits to shape the makings of a top-rate squad.

Janet Forester (22.8 points per game), Doll Eadon (11.9), Vicky Burton (11.9), Janice Flatt (7.4), and Sandy Ruff (3.8), were the backbone of last year's team and will be in the thick of things for the upcoming season. Forester and Flatt are just sophomores, Ruff a junior, while both Burton and Eadon are seniors, with the later pair being products of Tribble's basketball factory at Anderson.

New faces that will certainly help the upcoming season results will be Sally Black, Laura Lawton, Donna Forester, and Susan Reynolds, a quartet of former Anderson standouts, and a solid quartet of incoming freshmen in Mitzi Gregg, Bobbie Mims, Bette Paulling, Stephanie Brake, Princella Lee, and Kathy Wilson to round out the squad.

"With Donna Forester, Laura Lawton, Doll Eadon, Vicky Burton, and Susan Reynolds, you have the starting five on our second national championship team at Anderson and that gives us a pretty good group to begin things with at Clemson," commented Tribble.

Leaving Anderson was quite a move for Tribble but she expressed pleasure at the thoughts of the possibilities at Clemson.

"I am looking forward to the season and being at a four-year school," Mrs. Tribble said. "It will be quite a challenge but one that I am certainly looking forward to."

Basketball, women's style, added a new look for the Clemson athletic department during the 1975-76 season and everyone is looking forward to bigger and better things in 1976-77.

ACC Viewpoints: An Alumnus Recalls His Favorite Game

GLENN E. (TED) MANN, Duke '31—Through the years I have seen many great Duke games, both in victory and defeat. But, I might say hurriedly that during my time at Duke there were more victories than defeats. The three games that many point to as being great Duke battles were the Duke-Pitt game in the snow in 1938, the Duke-Southern Cal Rose Bowl game at the end of the 1938 season and the transplanted Rose Bowl game in Durham at the close of the 1941 season. But I would have to say that my most thrilling Duke game was the Duke-Tennessee contest in Duke Stadium in 1933. It was Duke's first major football victory and it was a typical old-time Duke-Tennessee battle in which Duke led 3-2 in the fourth period. Duke went on to win by 10-2. That was the day All-America tackle Fred Crawford almost single-handedly bottled up the Tennessee offense. It was a great day for Blue Devil fans.

BUDDY SHOAF, Virginia—As a running back, Ralph (Buddy) Shoaf lettered at Virginia for four years in the late 40's. It was the 1949 Pennsylvania game at Franklin Field in Philadelphia before 51,000 fans Shoaf remembers as being the best. "There were more Southerners in Philadelphia the night before the game than in Atlanta," Shoaf remembers. "What really made it so exciting and memorable was, we were such prohibitive underdogs. We beat them 26-14 and everyone who played had an outstanding game, a trademark of Art Guepe-coached teams. It was the first time we had beaten Penn in 15 tries and although we lost the next two, it kept us undefeated at the time." For Buddy Shoaf, a former Eastern Intercollegiate boxing champion and a playing participant in each of the 23 Virginia Varsity-Alumni spring football games, it was one remembrance of which many stood out.

CAPT. FRANK J. JERVEY, Clemson '14—I have been privileged to witness many terribly exciting football games played by Clemson. While it is difficult to point to one as the most exciting, I will offer a game played September 24, 1966, between Virginia and Clemson. Virginia had three pretty good backs in Frank Quayle, Bob Davis and a boy named Jarvis. And this end Carrington caught passes all over the place. However, Clemson had some players worthy of note like Addison, Gore, Jackson, Olszewski and Mass just to name a few. Clemson was down, 35-18, with 18 minutes to go, but scored what proved to be the winning touchdown on a 75-yard pass from Addison to Jackson with about three minutes to go. Even then Davis brought Virginia back down the field to the Clemson 14. Phil Marlon intercepted a Davis pass with less than two minutes to play to preserve the Clemson win.

ERNIE WILLIAMSON, North Carolina—It's difficult to pick one ACC game that stands out in my mind. I can remember certain plays much more vividly than I can entire games. The greatest play I ever saw was Paul Miller's quarterback keeper for a touchdown against Duke in 1970. He faked out everyone in Kenan Stadium and scored untouched on a bootleg play. Most of our fans point to our 50-0 win over Duke in 1959 as their most memorable game. Personally, I'll always remember our 7-6 victory against Duke the following year even more. We had swamped them so badly the previous year that the Duke players had dedicated their entire season to beating Carolina. We had only won one game all year, while Duke was 7-1 and headed to the Cotton Bowl. But we defeated them in Kenan Stadium in one of the biggest upsets in the history of the Duke-Carolina rivalry.

JACK HEISE, Maryland '47—On New Year's Day, 1952, Maryland, under the late Jim Tatum, played Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans. Tennessee was ranked No. 1 in the country before the game and the Terps were ranked third behind Michigan. Few people other than Maryland fans gave the Terps much of a chance, but Coach Tatum and his squad were ready. With such Maryland greats as Jack Scarbath, the Modzelewski brothers, Ed and Dick, and All-America guard Bob Ward, the Terps controlled the game from the very beginning. They scored three times in a seven-minute period during the end of the first and the beginning of the second quarter, and went out at halftime with a 21-6 lead. The second half was much like the first as Maryland stopped the Volunteers almost every time they got the ball. The final score was 28-13 and with the win, Maryland had completed its first undefeated season with a perfect 10-0 record. It was declared national champion and it was the start of a great era in Maryland football.

BILL JOYNER, Wake Forest '65—Having entered Wake Forest in 1962, I watched only one victory in 20 games my first two years. The players, though embarassed, were a colorful, gutty group. The 1964 team was supposed to be even worse than the previous two teams. But you had the feeling in the late summer after practice began that they were going to be better. So, a group of us went to the season opener at Virginia just to see what would happen. It was amazing; each play the Deacons got better and ended up with a 31-21 victory. One player emerged as the leader, an undersized, big-hearted running back named Brian Piccolo, who got the ball about 20 times that day and ran wild. The most memorable play of the day came when, with the score 24-21 in the fourth quarter, John Mackovic pulled a quarterback sneak and went through the center untouched for a game-clinching 87-yard touchdown run. That entire team had unbellevable courage and they were never finer than that first afternoon in Charlottesville in 1964.

C. A. DILLON, JR., N. C. State '47—The N.C. State game I remember the most was the Wolfpack's 13-6 win over Duke in the opening game of the 1946 season. I was sports editor of The Technician at the time and the game was the first for Wallace Wade as Duke head coach after his return from the war. State had not beaten Duke since 1932 and would not win again until 1963. The Blue Devils got the first score, recovering a fumble and going seven yards for a touchdown late in the first quarter. Charlie Richkus, State's tailback, was the key man in our two scoring drives that won the game. He passed for 11 yards to Oscar Bozeman for the first touchdown and then ran four yards in the closing seconds of a real exciting afternoon to end a 75-yard march and break a 6-6 tie. It was only justice, the way I saw it, because State had dominated the game at rain-soaked Riddick Stadium that day. State's defense allowed Duke only two yards rushing and 32 passing, while the offense gained 29 yards rushing and had 148 in the air. It was a great victory for State, one that I'll always remember.

CLEMSON'S Statewide Campus

by Margaret Callison Pridgen

To people who think college professors sit in an ivory tower while students come to them for enlightenment, Clemson engineer Bill Hudson presents a strange picture.

Hudson more closely resembles an old-time circuit rider, a country preacher with a handful of congregations, than he does the tweed jacketed academician. Briefcase in hand, Hudson traveled the state of South Carolina this past summer, from foothills to flatlands, but not as an evangelist. The message he spread was continuing education for South Carolina's professional engineers.

"For five weeks I spent four days on the road and three at home," says Hudson, who taught refresher courses in applied heat transfer and thermodynamics this summer to some of the state's practicing engineers.

From a modest beginning in 1967 with 13 courses and 480 students, Clemson's Continuing Engineering Education (CEE) program has grown into a big public service activity of the university. In the past two years a total of 16,167 persons participated in 585 programs at 17 locations throughout the Palmetto State.

Karl Johnson, director of continuing engineering education, attributes the enrollment increase to the vagabond character of today's program.

"Every engineer, in fact every individual in the state is within easy driving distance of one of Clemson's 'campuses'," says Johnson.

Engineers are not the only people who benefit from the educational offerings of Clemson's state-wide campus. Each college in the University has on-campus and off-campus programs that reach thousands of South Carolinians from all walks of life.

For every student who comes to the ivory tower, there are two who stay at home and continue to learn and improve the quality of their lives because of Clemson circuit riders like Bill Hudson.

During the 1976-77 academic year, the University will offer some type of continuing or extension education to more than 20,000 non-campus-resident students.

Thousands more are reached through the use of public media such as television, radio and newspapers.

Last year, 129 courses were taught by the College of Education in 43 locations. The more than 3,000 students who participated were teachers working either toward an advanced degree in education or toward course credit to maintain certification. Several private colleges cooperated including Erskine, Newberry, Columbia, Wofford and Presbyterian.

In the College of Industrial Management and Textile Sciences, the professional development program taught 112 courses to more than 3,200 students last year. Some courses were offered on the Clemson campus and some were off-campus programs, many held in-house for business and industry. Participants came from 25 states and six foreign countries.

The Agricultural Technology Program brought continuing education to farmers via the state's technical education centers. Last year 558 people enrolled in the ag technology program, and 4,000 more took advantage of approximately 70 other in-service training and continuing education courses offered through the Cooperative Extension Service in the College of Agricultural Sciences.

The College of Architecture offers short courses and conferences as does the College of Forestry and Recreation Resources. Within the latter college, the department of recreation and parks administration provides the opportunity for its graduates who are employed in the lowcountry area to pursue graduate studies by holding classes for them each year in Charleston.

The College of Liberal Arts and the College of Sciences also teach courses, workshops and short courses, some coordinated through the College of Education, for teachers, businessmen and others.

In the College of Nursing, the Emergency and Critical Care program worked with nurses in a seven county area and the Pediatric Nurse Practitioner program in Charleston had 15 graduates last year.

Although Clemson's on-campus enrollment of approximately 10,000 full-time students is small compared to some state universities, the circuit-riding professors minister to a far larger "congregation," the entire state of South Carolina.

College: It's Worth It

It's good to have you as our guest today on the Clemson University campus for an afternoon of Tiger football.

College football has become as much of an American tradition as some of the events we have celebrated during our Bicentennial. Indeed, a strong intercollegiate athletic program is a valuable asset to a university and to the students it serves. Pride in victory and in school spirit is also part of the fabric of our heritage.

It seems appropriate in this year of reflection to give thought to the educational taproot from which has grown this great tradition of intercollegiate competition. We are here today because Clemson University is here, and Clemson, like other colleges and universities, is about education.

Higher education has come through some rough times since the late 1960s when campus unrest and protest were widespread. It became the vogue to make universities and their administrators the whipping posts for many of society's ills.

Now it appears that in 1976, history is repeating itself, although in a different form. In recent months higher education once again has become the target of severe criticism, especially in a book, Caroline Bird's The Case Against College, which has received national attention. It attacks the very concept of a college education, using generalizations and popular myths to create a distorted picture.

Criticism per se is not the issue here. It would be more than foolish to even suggest that higher education never deserves criticism. What is the urgent concern, and the thing which is disturbing, is that this type of across-the-board indictment of our colleges and universities will be accepted as factual without a relentless, personal inquisitiveness from each of us. If we don't do this, then we indeed have a true American tragedy.

If there ever was a time for believers in higher education to come forward and speak up, it is now. The public deserves — and has a responsibility, if you will — to have the case for higher education stated in a clear, undistorted way.

A favorite expression in football strategy suggests that the best defense is a good offense. I propose that our colleges and universities, especially those member institutions of the national land-grant system, have been on the offense for more than 100 years, ever since Congress gave us the ball in the form of the Morrill Act which established the land-grant system of higher education in 1862.

This system has given every American so many reasons to be proud. State universities and land-grant institutions don't need to make any apologies for their performance in the public arena. It is a fact the influence of land-grant institutions extends into the homes and working lives of all Americans, and of many peoples around the world.

Clemson, as are other state and land-grant universities, is concerned with the real world and people's problems: improving the quality of life for all our citizens — better housing, adequate supplies of food and fiber, energy, the protection of our environment and natural resources. Yes, these and many other basic concerns.

Consider these remarkable land-grant institution achievements: discovery of streptomycin for treatment and control of tuberculosis; development of the anti-coagulant dicoumarol which prevents blood clotting; development of the TV tube, the transistor, the first cyclotron, and production of pure uranium.

Clemson's impressive contributions to the quality of life include development of new food products and nutrient-rich food substitutes; major advances in food production and harvesting; breakthroughs in biomedical research such as artificial body implants and replacements; special programs for the young, the elderly, the sightless, the mentally handicapped.

From these few examples, it is obvious the cumulative benefits of state and land-grant university research has more than repaid the public for tax dollars spent in support of these institutions.

I believe that some of the finest spokesmen for the value of higher education are the millions of men and women who have been richly-served by their college diplomas.

The real facts — the true story — about modern higher education also makes interesting reading. In most cases, truth is indeed stranger and more exciting than fiction.

College is worth it.

CLEMSON UNIVERSITY

BILL McLELLAN — Athletic Director

Very few of his peers can boast of the formal training or experience which Bill McLellan has acquired over the past 17 years.

Only the third man to own the title of Director of Athletics at Clemson, McLellan was elevated to his present position Feb. 4, 1971, following more than a decade of service to the university's athletic department.

That service began as an apprenticeship in the spring of 1958, on the eve of two consecutive post-season bowl appearances by the football Tigers.

Carrying the title of assistant business manager, McLellan had been credited with handling the majority of the university's athletic business and operation long before his appointment as the school's athletic director.

His duties included such things as the overall operation of the ticket office and mail room; the overseer of purchases and expenditures by the department; and the supervision of all the department's athletic facilities.

After a majority of his staff had called it a day, McLellan wound up on the football practice field where he assisted his former coach, Frank Howard, with the latter's gridiron chores.

In 1966 McLellan was named Clemson's assistant athletic director, and two years later as associate AD.

During the past decade, Clemson's athletic physical plant experienced a major face lifting under McLellan's direction.

The Tiger basketball team plays in Littlejohn Coliseum, now eight years old and the newest cage facility in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Last year the cagers won a school-record 18 games.

Six years ago the baseball team christened a new facility, and this past spring, recorded its 19th consecutive winning season, made its second straight trip to NCAA post-season playoffs and its third trip to the College World Series.

In 1972 the A. Hoke Sloan Tennis Center, surrounded by 14 Laykold courts, was completed; and in the same year, the soccer team, winner of four straight ACC titles, moved to a Bermuda-turfed field, complete with bleachers and electric scoreboard.

A new all-weather, nine-lane track was used for the first time in 1973, the same year the Jervey Athletic Center was occupied. This facility houses all athletic personnel, has carpeted dressing rooms for each athletic team, workout and training rooms and a two-court, tartan-surfaced gym.

And last winter, the Tiger swimming teams opened their season in the new Fike Natatorium with its electrically-timed eight-lane pool and separate diving tank.

McLellan's efforts have been directed in many areas since 1958, and regardless of the matter at hand or the sport in season, he is continually looking for ways to improve both the athletic program and the university's overall goals.

A native of Hamer, McLellan, 44, played football for Clemson and was a member of the Tigers' 1952 Gator Bowl team.

He married the former Ann Rogers of Fork, June 5, 1954, and they have four children — Suzy, a junior at Winthrop; Bill, a freshman at Spartanburg Methodist College; Cliff, a senior at Pendleton High School; and Arch Anna, a freshman at Pendleton High.

RED PARKER

Head Football Coach

The Clemson Tiger Express, bound for the nation's football elite and destined to reach its goal, suffered a temporary derailment one year ago, but Red Parker sees no reason why his Tigers cannot get back on track in pursuit of their original goal.

Entering his fourth season as chief engineer of Clemson's football fortunes, Parker laid the track for the Tigers' return trip to the top of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

He came to Tigertown in December, 1972, following a season when Clemson had managed but four gridiron victories.

Yet the Hampton, Ark., native, whose repertoire included head coaching stints at Fordyce, Ark., High School, Arkansas A&M and The Citadel, brought an exciting triple option offense and a heart full of dedication with him.

His first season, 1973, was a success. Clemson recorded five wins and scored 231 points, more than any other Tiger team had accumulated in any one of the previous 13 campaigns.

One year later, Parker faced a season with a more confident group of players, but against an even tougher schedule than the year before.

It was Excitement Galore, as the Tigers won seven and lost four, and missed an eight-win season and a post-season bowl trip by two points and 90 seconds.

For his achievement, Parker was recognized as Coach-of-the-Year in both the State of South Carolina and the ACC.

Then, despite some key losses, Clemson was picked as the team to beat for the '75 ACC crown. But some unexpected and uncontrollable bounces of the football, together with some critical injuries to key personnel, led to a dismal season.

But Parker, who has never served as anything but a head coach, spent the next nine months going over the things that might have been, the things as they were and the things that were going to be in hopes of putting the Tigers back on the track where they left off in '74 — as one of the nation's most exciting football teams.

Parker's collegiate coaching began at his alma mater, Arkansas A&M where his teams posted a 29-19-2 record from 1961 through 1965. In his last three seasons there his teams were 24-5-1 and won a pair of conference championships. He then went to The Citadel where in seven seasons the Bulldogs were 39-34, including an 8-3 finish in 1971.

But his climb in the coaching world started at Fordyce where he took a team that had lost 22 straight, and in eight seasons, amassed a 75-12-4 record. At one stretch Fordyce won 37 straight games and bagged three consecutive Arkansas prep titles.

Parker, the 19th man to hold the head football job at Clemson, now has a 15-year collegiate record of 82-72-2.

The 44-year-old Parker (he'll be 45 Oct. 26th) earned a BA degree from Arkansas A&M at College Heights, Ark., in 1953. In his undergraduate days he earned three letters as a running back-defensive back, three as a second baseman-shortstop and three as a sprinter.

He married the former Betty Goggans of Rison, Ark., May 26, 1951. They have three children — Mrs. Vicki Wallace; Cindy, a senior at Clemson; and Jim Mack, a sophomore at D. W. Daniel High School.

Each additional letter or numeral is $1. Sports symbols are $10 each. For example, the design shown above right is $81 ($40 plus 11 additional letters @ $1 and three symbols @ $10). Larger frame sizes and special insignia are also available, and prices will be quoted upon request.

The uniqueness of each order requires that we quote you a total cost immediately upon receiving your order coupon, school letter and $40 deposit. A $3 charge will be added to your order to cover postage and handling. Work will begin only after receiving your go-ahead. Delivery may be expected within four weeks after confirmation is received. All work guaranteed.

See Campus Keepsakes designs at Robin Hood Wool Shop, 336 College Avenue in Clemson. On display Fridays prior to football Saturdays from 5 to 9 p.m. and on football Saturdays from 10 a.m. to Noon and from 3:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The COUNTRY'S BEST BASKETBALL TEAMS

by Curry Kirkpatrick, SPORTS ILLUSTRATED

ALABAMA

Only a couple of Leon Douglas' missed foul shots—an Alabama trademark—prevented the Crimson Tide from hanging Indiana on the ropes in the Mideast regional, and the Hoosiers escaped from their toughest tournament contest. It was a moment Coach C. M. Newton had been waiting for in each of Douglas' four years at Tuscaloosa. Now that the big center is gone, the Tide must make do with scoring forwards Reginald King and Keith McCord and the quick, smart backcourt of T. R. Dunn and Anthony Murray. Even without a center, this might be the all-time best of the gangs who couldn't shoot straight—at least from the foul lines.

ARIZONA

Each year Fred (The Fox) Snowden is said to be moving from the deserts of Tucson back to the wilds of Michigan. Is the Fox coaching Michigan State? The Detroit Pistons? The Grand Rapids Presidents? No, he is back at Arizona with (Big Bird) Bob Elliott, Herm (The Germ) Harris and a gaggle of huge, bruising types who are brim up to here in tournament experience. The Wildcats will miss steady Al Fleming and Jim Rappis, meaning they may turn the ball over 50 times a half. But the Fox is sure to come up with some new hares.

AUBURN

After two seasons of scaring the numbers off the SEC establishment, Auburn stumbled from the gate and never recovered. An unsolved mystery was why guard Eddie Johnson, forward Mike Mitchell, and cocky rookie Cedric Hordges could not play together in Coach Bob Davis' storehouse of screaming, much less win important games. Nearly everybody is back: Mitchell to relax with his sewing, Johnson to dribble unrecognized through spectacular seasons, and Davis to get angry and lock his teams in dressing rooms all night. Tigers starting badly may be locked in for the season.

"Big Bird" Bob Elliott leads a huge, brulsing group of Wildcats.

Auburn's Eddie Johnson can do it all.

CINCINNATI

If you think Cincinnati Coach Gale Catlett's sportcoats are grotesque, you should have seen the play the Bearcats tried to run against Notre Dame with a one-point lead and seconds to go in the NCAA tournament. Cincy couldn't get the ball in bounds and ended up losing. As Catlett earlier discovered, Bearcats are "lazy animals who sleep all day." Oh well. Returnees—center Robert Miller, forwards Pat Cummings and Mike Jones, guards Steve Collier and Gary Yoder, and swingman Brian Williams—make Cincinnati loaded enough to sleep through half its season.

DE PAUL

Among alumni who used to hang out at Transfer Tech—you need transfers between Chicago Transit routes commuting to class—Mayor Richard Daley and the rock group, Chicago, are as enthusiastic as the rest of us about the return of the De Paul starting lineup which revived the college game in the Windy City. Combustible Center Dave Corzine, heavies Andy Pancratz and Joe Ponsetto, and leaping Ron Norwood should keep Coach Ray Meyer plodding along to his eight millionth victory as well as to the Hall of Fame.

HOLY CROSS

You remember HC, right? The Cooz going behind the back and between the legs. Heads-down Tommy Heinsohn firing from the corners. Don't look now, but here comes "the Cross" again. Coach George Blaney had the most improved record in the country two years ago; last season he won 21 of the quietest games anybody could hear of: no rankings, barely a tournament bid. Maybe it's because of those plain-named kids like Chris Potter, Marty Halsey, Bill Doran. But then there was Michael Vicens, the quick 6'-5" forward out of Puerto Rico. And now there is the heralded 6'-1" Ron Perry from right in West Roxbury. It won't be a crusade for the Crusaders to be noticed anymore.

INDIANA

If Indiana doesn't win its second straight NCAA championship, Bobby Knight will know the reason why. Simply that the losses of Quinn Buckner, Bob Wilkerson, Tom Abernethy, and the remarkable Scott May were just too much to make up for. On the other hand, the suspicion is that Center Kent Benson will do enough singlehandedly to keep the Hoosiers alive. With holdover strongmen Wayne Radford and Bob Valavicious, shooters Jim Wiseman and Bob Bender and the best recruiting class in America starring Butch Carter and the bespectacled Glen Grunwald, this team should have enough shining armor for any Knight.

KENTUCKY

How Joe Hall's Wildcats—without star pivotman Rick Robey—rushed from a 10-10 record to win their final 10 games as well as the NIT championship over destiny's darlings from UNC-Charlotte is anybody's guess. Huge Mike Phillips, who filled Robey's place, is one. Corner marksman Jack Givens is another. Underrated Andy Johnson is a third. And rookie Truman Claytor is still a fourth. Inspired, 'Cat recruiters went out and nabbed big Lavon Williams from Colorado, little Jay Shidler from Illinois and medium-sized Tim Stephens from right at home. Oh yes, Robey is back, too. Probably in the NCAAs this time, not the NIT.

LOUISVILLE

"Darrel Griffith is the best guard prospect out of high school since Oscar Robertson." More than one pro scout offered this assessment about Louisville's famous freshman, who was the only prep player invited to the Olympic trials. If Griffith and his Male High School partner, Bobby Turner, both 6-4, turn out to be another Junior Bridgeman-Allen Murphy combination, the Cardinals will be set for years. The team already has enigmatic Wesley Cox, talented Larry Williams, and tall Ricky Gallon up front. Even before he got Griffith, Coach Denny Crum said this was Louisville's year. With him, it won't exactly be crummy.

LAS VEGAS

You could set Jerry Tarkanian down somewhere off Mindanao with his unhappy and unemotional look, and a canteen of water, and in three years he'd have himself a national contender. That's just about what happened in Baghdad-on-the-sand when the Rebels roared to a 29-2 record that even the highest roller could be proud of.

Rick Robey could be the key to success for Kentucky.

Indiana's multi-talented Kent Benson.

Eddie Owens, the half-Japanese swingman, will be gliding; massive Lewis Brown will be grumbling; Sam Smith will be hurling his bazookas. And Las Vegas may score 300 points one night. Tarkanian still will look as if the sky was falling.

MARQUETTE

As Al McGuire might say, "if the players don't use too much peripheral vision on agents, we could be seashells and balloons." Translated: the Warriors will be tough once more. Unfortunately, Chairman Al—who replaces spare parts like a General Motors foreman—may have left himself open if tall scorer Bo Ellis decides to go pro hardship. The key new Warrior is a small one: transfer Jimmy Boylan. An exquisite passer, Boylan will play alongside Butch Lee and try to make up for the departed Lloyd Walton while sophomore Bernard (Looney) Toone takes over for Earl Tatum. As Jerome Whitehead sweeps the boards, McGuire sweeps the quotes. All is well in Milwaukee.

MARYLAND

Once again Maryland led the land in field goal shooting; once again the Terps failed in the nitty-gritty, this time sustaining a defeat by Virginia in the ACC tournament—in Maryland. To replace the graduated John Lucas and Mo Howard, Coach Lefty Driesell has rookie Jo Jo Hunter, James Tillman, and the amazing shooter, Brian Magid, who didn't play much. Others who did—Brad Davis, Steve Sheppard, Larry Boston and the injury-plagued center, Larry Gibson—will be enough to get the Terps to the nitty again. It's up to Lefty to supply the gritty.

MICHIGAN

After a late March in which he absolutely wowed the NCAA final four, Rickey Green changed his mind about turning pro and opted for another year at Ann Arbor. Which must have had Coach Johnny Orr turning cartwheels, so much does the elusive Green mean to the Wolverines. Orr lost Stuart House, the big man-rookie he wanted, to Washington State, but Phil Hubbard, John Robinson and the tough backcourt leader, Steve Grote, all return from the national runnersup, a

THE VOICE OF NCAA FOOTBALL

I guess I've been asked ten thousand times . . . which sport is my favorite . . . and while I don't like to pick a particular favorite . . . I do admit that college football sits at the top of the various sports that I witness and work with during the course of a year.

My colleague, Howard Cossell, has referred to the game of football as life in microcosm and I think he is right, but it goes beyond the playing field. It reaches literally into every venue of the community where the game is being played.

Two prime examples of the impact of college football in this 1976 season: UCLA and Arizona State scheduled to play their opener on national television September 8, a Tuesday, but the Arizona legislature argued the game should be played on another date because September 8th was primary election day in the State and a game as attractive as UCLA—Arizona could have a massive effect on the voter turnout.

The merchants of Lincoln, Nebraska have been resistant to having the traditional Oklahoma-Nebraska game played on the Friday following Thanksgiving . . . they fear their annual sales day which triggers the Christmas shopping season . . . would come off second best and they are almost surely right because when the Sooners and the Huskers play . . . not much else gets attention in Lincoln.

That, my friends . . . is Impact!!!

My fondness and respect for the game of college football goes far beyond the playing field . . . because so many people within the campus population are involved . . . it is a powerful unifying element for the school spanning all generations. It is a viable merchandising tool and, handled well, provides the fiscal foundation for most of the recreational facilities at most universities.

Sport is not a frivolous by-product of a leisure society . . . but rather an essential adjunct of a vigorous competitive population and hopefully we shall retain the societal enthusiasm in a free enterprise system which has produced the most successful overall sports participation in the world. In this game more than most . . . I think you can find noble effort and commitment on both sides of the field . . . whether winning or losing . . . whether it's at Catawba or California . . . whether the colors are red and white or black and blue.

College football . . . is a reflection . . . a mirror in a sense . . . of all of us . . . it has been a large force in melding us together because it reaches into virtually every strata of our country and it reinforces loyalty. And it's worth keeping healthy!

Through two and a half decades of broadcasting college football games, one of my pleasures has been to take stock and note of some of the names of the men who have played the game and there have been times when the name of the player far exceeded his ability. Sometimes "pronouncing" the name is essential to make the match or the point. Just for the fun of it, here are some of the combinations from the past and the present.

Animals have always been prominent among the football rosters: Wolf; Bear; Crow; Swallow; Finch; a Hereford, Stallion and Charles J. Pony; a lot of Fox; a Cougar; Marmot; Beaver; Fish, Dolphin, Shark, Salmon, Perch, Trout, Bass, and a defensive lineman named Whitefish.

Directions and Seasons have always been prominent, too. . . . North, South, East and West; Winter; Spring; Summer; Summer and Fall, and I know of at least one Autumn.

The Food category also interesting . . . Mignon; Sirloin; Ground; Stew; Eggs; Spudd; Bacon; a Bernaise and a Sauce; Turnip (and Turnipseed); Celery; Cauliflower; Carrot; Lettuce; a Salad and a Dressing (but neither from Catalina).

Emotional names like Anger and Angry not to mention Fury. Temper; Knash; Madd; Gladd; Quiet; Laughter and Sweet and Sauer.

In the area of transportation . . . we have always had Carrs; Trucks; Tranes; Busses; Kartes; Waggons; Peddlers; Pushers; Pullers; and Stoppers. Roads; Streets; and an occasional Path . . . plus Plains; Lands; Rivers; Streams; States; Nations.

One of my all time favorites comes from a game in which a Montgomery carried the ball . . . an Eisenhauer tackled him and a Churchill recovered the fumble.

And there was a game played in the West once in which a Carter carried the ball . . . tackled by a Browne . . . the fumble recovered by a Forde with a Udall watching from the Bench. Unfortunately I can't remember a Reagan being in the Press Box.

If the game grows quiet or your team is losing . . . let your mind wander and play the name game . . . you might be surprised how much fun you can have.

Introducing the dollar stretchers.

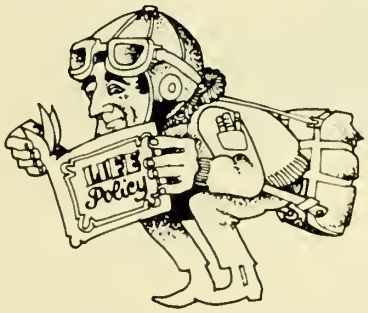
Your SAFECO agent is a good person to know.
Because he can show you more than 136 ways to stretch your insurance dollar.
Here are some examples.

1. Cut costs on disability insurance by increasing the elimination period. The longer the elimination period (time lag between the beginning of a disability and the first income payment), the lower the premiums.

2. Keep your valuables in a safe place. You may be able to lower fine arts, stamp and coin collection insurance rates if you store the items in bank vaults, home vaults or fireproof safes.

3. Go for a bigger hunk of life. Many insurance companies offer discounts for larger policies. So avoid buying a bundle of small policies when one might do.

4. Don't make the wrong move with moving insurance. Before you buy a special, and often expensive, policy sold by moving companies, check your homeowners. You may already be covered.



5. Check your life policy before you fly. If you have adequate life insurance coverage, you won't have to buy expensive airline trip transit policies.

6. Unless you own an oil well, don't invest in endowment policies. For most people, endowment policy premiums are too high for the value received. Many would be better off with a straight life policy.

7. Be a boating expert. Some companies will give you up to a 10% discount if you complete an approved power-boat handling course.

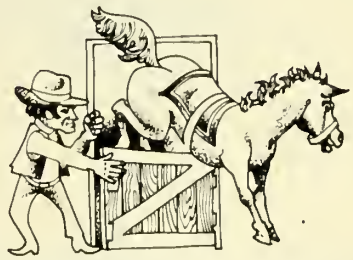
8. Increase deductibles on your business insurance. You could save up to 18% on your building insurance premium by carrying a $1,000 deductible.

9. Keep an extra set of accounts receivable. If you keep a duplicate set at another location, you could save up to 50% on the accounts receivable premium.

10. Check into I.R.A. retirement plans. They provide a good way to buy your life insurance through tax-deductible dollars.

11. Don't get stranded by your auto insurance. Check to see if your comprehensive provides transportation expenses if your car is stolen. You may be able to save yourself some car fare.

12. Go for the big deductibles. You could save a lot on your premiums if you carry a $200 collision deductible rather than a $100 deductible—and take a $50 deductible on comprehensive. And any loss over $100 is deductible from your income tax.



13. Lock the barn door before the horse gets away. Do everything you can to avoid losses to your home. Check for hazards. Install alarms. Buy good locks, and use them. Keep fire department, police and emergency medical aid numbers handy. It's the best way in the world to fight rising insurance costs.

14. Don't look for bargains in health insurance. A cheap policy just may not be adequate. And this is one place where it's better to have too much than too little.

15. Buy insurance from an agent who's not just a company man. A local independent agent, who represents many companies and sells many different insurance plans, may be able to get you a better deal. Because independents are free to sell you what's best for you. And get you the best value to boot.

If you think these tips make sense, see the people who wrote the book. SAFECO has put together a handy, 36-page consumer guide that tells you how to get more for your insurance dollar. It contains the 15 tips you've just read. Plus 121 more. For this handy guide, write to SAFECO at SAFECO Plaza, Seattle 98185.

team which made everybody's all-excitement list. Here's one vote of thanks that Green stayed to contribute more excitement.

NORTH CAROLINA

After dealing with the Yugoslavians and Puerto Rico in the Montreal Olympics, Coach Dean Smith should be on easy street in the ACC. Or should he? The Coach wanted a freshman to replace Center Mitch Kupchak, but Smith lost Glen Grunwald and Ricky Brown (who chose Mississippi State) so Tom LaGarde moves over from the corner. This means Walter Davis stays up front while Phil Ford, the shooter, and John Keuster, the passer, operate the backcourt. The Tar Heels are not deep and their fate may depend on a muscular 6'-7" rookie from New Jersey named Mike O'Koren whom Smith claims is the best he's ever recruited. Remember the name. O'Koren. As in O'K.

NORTH CAROLINA STATE

More than one expert has ascertained that the purest talent in college belongs to the relatively obscure Kenny Carr, who played in the shadow of Adrian Dantley in high school and David Thompson in college. When he is not sulking or quitting, Carr is impossible to contain. As if Carr's attitude was not enough of a problem, Coach Norm Sloan has hired on two credentials-heavy frosh, Hawkeye Whitney and Clyde (The Glide) Austin, to share the wealth. Al Green also likes to shoot; seven-footer Glen Sudhop rebounds all this nonsense and little Craig Davis tries to keep everybody happy. Good luck, Craig.

NOTRE DAME

At the end of his sophomore season, Adrian Dantley said he might leave school unless he got help on the boards. Coach Digger Phelps grabbed some big men and the Irish led the world in rebounding. This year Dantley also contemplated an exit so Phelps came up with California's Rich Branning, a penetrating guard to fill the one Irish weak spot. Now, with Dantley staying in school, Notre Dame has its best shot at the NCAA title ever. Inside power is supplied by Bruce Flowers, Bill Laimbeer, Dave Batton, and Toby Knight. Outside are Bernard Rencher, Duck Williams, and

Notre Dame will rely on the talents of Bill Paterno.

Marques Johnson is back and the Bruins are hungry.

Ray Martin. The dangerous Bill Paterno swings. Enough? Last year Notre Dame lost to Indiana by three points. Enough.

PROVIDENCE

For those zoo freaks who appreciate dancing bears and graceful hippos, attention is drawn to our smallest state, to Providence College and the Wonder of the Eastern World, Bob Misevicius. Forget pronouncing it. Just know that whatever you've heard about shooter Joey (Sonar) Hassett, who might be the most overrated player since Les Cason, it is the 6-9 rumbling Misevicius who makes the Friars go. He is the best passing big man since whom? Since nobody. Soup Campbell, Bill Eason and Bob Cooper return inside, and Coach Dave Gavitt will find somebody to play backcourt. In the meantime, watch Misevicius pass it. He is a surprise. And a delight.

RUTGERS

Wait a minute, Manny. Just a minute. We ran this one up the flagpole last year. Undefeated. Untied. Then, undone. The sorrow of it all is that everybody forgot Rutgers' marvelous 30-0 record just as soon as Michigan laid waste to the Scarlet in the final four. The fact is Rutgers wasn't that bad; it's just that Phil Sellers was that nasty. Mike Dabney is gone along with Sellers' histrionics yet this could be a—gasp—better team. Fast Eddie Jordan runs the break as well as anyone, and his receivers, Hollis Copeland, Jim Bailey and Abdul Anderson, are free and fleet. Rutgers will be back. Sweeter this time.

SAN FRANCISCO

Perhaps Bob Gaillard over-coached his young Dons on some occasions. Perhaps they were never that good to begin with. Probably a combination of all three things—mostly having to play with just one ball—halted San Francisco from establishing the same kind of dynasty their big brothers in the Bay Area—the Golden State One-Year Warriors—had. Anyway, all the babes—Bill Cartright, Wilford Boynes, James Hardy, Sam Williams, et al.—return for a second chance. Seniors Jeff Randell, Russ Coleman, and Marion Redmond, the team's best all-around, get a last chance.San Francisco has some dues to pay. Gently do not flow the Dons.

UCLA

Any team which can lose a backcourt leader to graduation (Andre McCarter) plus a one-time NCAA tournament MVP (Richard Washington) and still be in the chase for the national championship can only reside in one place: Westwood. A big reason for optimism is the return of sharpshooting Marquess Johnson who came close to leaving via the Washington route. Reports of Gene Bartow's imminent unpopularity were exaggerated. If only because they are UCLA, the Bruins are expected to be strong with Johnson being helped by the potentially brilliant David Greenwood in the pivot. If Jimmy Spillane and Ray Townsend continue their tournament ways, Brad Holland will get a chance for fulfillment. Meanwhile, all hail. When the UCLA myth was shattered for all time, it didn't mean the Bruins were bad persons. Only mortal ones.

IF YOU CAN'T COME TO HOLLAND HAVE A HEINEKEN.

The taste of Holland, pure and incomparable, comes through clearly in each and every glass of Heineken. Light or Dark—or on draft.

Heineken tastes tremendous. No wonder it's America's #1 imported beer.

RUGBY...

THE FORERUNNER OF COLLEGE FOOTBALL

by Al Moss

At Rugby College in England, many decades after the fact, a small monument was erected bearing this inscription:

This Stone
Commemorates the Exploit of
William Webb Ellis
Who With a Fine Disregard for the Rules of Football as Played in His Time
First Took the Ball in His Arms and Ran With It
Thus Originating the Distinctive Feature of the Rugby Game
A.D. 1823

Ellis was roundly chastised and sent from the field in shame while the captain of his inter-class team apologized profusely for this flagrant breach of etiquette.

But consider this, football fans: Were it not for Ellis' faux pas more than 150 years ago, all those bowl games and football weekends—indeed, the game you're watching today—would be soccer!

It almost happened anyway. That famous "first game of intercollegiate football" played between Princeton and Rutgers on November 6, 1869, was simply a 25-a-side soccer game—no running with the ball allowed. In reality, the forerunner of American football began at Harvard, which played what it called the "Boston Game"—which did allow running with the ball—as early as 1871.

When Yale invited Harvard, Princeton, Columbia and Rutgers to organize an "Intercollegiate Football Association" in 1873, Harvard declined to join the other four because the rules proposed—basically, those of soccer—were incompatible with the "Boston Game."

Instead, Harvard, unaware that it had just changed completely the history of football in the United States, signed to play two games with McGill University of Montreal in the spring of 1874 at Cambridge, Mass.; the first was played under Harvard rules, the second under McGill—or rugby—rules.

"There were many points of difference (in the Boston Game) from the rugby game," William R. Tyler, Class of 1874, wrote in the Harvard Advocate. "It (Harvard's game) was eminently a kicking, as distinguished from a running and tackling, game. The rules existed only in tradition. We went to work to learn the rugby game, but I should question if there were three men in college who had ever seen the egg-shaped ball. A dropkick was an unknown and almost incredible feat, and the intricacies of 'off side,' 'free kick,' 'put out' and such commonplaces of the game seemed inextricable mysteries to novices like us."

Be that as it may, Harvard won the first game and got a scoreless tie in the second. Far more important, it liked the rugby rules so much that it adopted them, Yale and Princeton soon followed and that was how the whole thing started.

The evolution to American football was slow but steady—the addition of the quarterback, blocking, the forward pass, the T-Formation—but current rugby enthusiasts still will recognize their game in this description of "football" by the late John W. Heisman, who was a player in the late 1880s and early 1890s, and later a famous coach and athletic director, (for whom the Heisman Trophy is named):

"Players of my time had to be real iron men because we played two games each week—Wednesday and Saturday. Once a game started, a player could not leave unless he actually was hurt or, at least, pleaded injury. Accordingly, whenever the captain wanted to put a fresh player into action, he whispered, 'Get your arm hurt, or something.' In one game my captain whispered to me: 'Get your neck broke, Heisman'."

The more things change, the more they stay the same. Ask any 1976 rugger.

Not all the changes, however, were for the best. The game of football became so rough that in 1905 President Theodore Roosevelt angrily warned the colleges either to clean up their act or he would abolish the game, by executive edict if necessary.

(That would not have been without precedent, incidentally. King Henry II of England banned the playing of "futballe," on threat of imprisonment, in the mid-12th century and that stood for some 400 years.)

As a result of Roosevelt's warning, the colleges changed a number of rules in 1906, one of the new ones allowing the forward pass. But still, Columbia in the East and most of the universities on the West Coast gave up football entirely and returned to rugby for some dozen years; by the time they again took up football, rugby had established a following of its own in the West and remained as a separate sport.

In 1919 a group of American collegiate ruggers toured British Columbia and, after winning easily there, decided to enter the trials for the 1920 Olympic Games, rugby then being an Olympic sport. They scrounged up the money (most of it from the players themselves), picked the team and then amazed the sports world by capturing the Olympic Gold Medal with a string of upsets, climaxed by an 8-0 victory over France.

When they repeated as Gold Medalists in the 1924 Games, rugby was dropped as an Olympic sport. Coincidence, no doubt.

Since then, rugby and American football—what the British call "gridiron"—have gone their separate ways, but they still have an impact on one another. Although mini-rugby, a cut-down version of the game for grammar school youngsters, is beginning to gain popularity in the U.S., it still is true that very few Americans ever play rugby before college—in fact, only a handful have ever seen the game.

But for a lot of college football players, rugby is an enjoyable change of pace and a way to stay in shape in the months between the end of the fall season and the start of spring practice. And for those who don't have the size, or the specialized skills—or maybe just don't have the inclination—for the more-regimented and often high-pressure game of football, rugby is a pleasant alternative.

In addition, for the thousands and thousands of ex-football players who don't become professionals—and a few of those who do, although they may be somewhat reluctant to discuss it with their general managers—rugby is about the only contact sport available after college. There are hundreds of club teams throughout the United States, playing at every level from novice right up to the best in the world. (The United States played its first international match, its national team against that of Australia, last January, losing creditably, 24-12.)

But not every player has to be of top caliber, and that is one of the attractions of the sport. There are few limits on experience, size or even age. Some players have literally taken part in the first rugby game they've ever seen. Some of the best halfbacks (roughly equivalent to football's quarterback) have to eat heavily and lie heartily to ever reach 140 pounds. And for the past three years rugby has been part of the Senior Olympics in the U.S., with teams of players over 35 years meeting. Of course, on an international basis that is too young; there the lower age limit is 40, and a Japanese team with players ranging even into their 60s recently toured Canada—they had no trouble finding opponents.

Touring, incidentally, is a big and attractive part of the game. While American football is just now reaching outside North America—an all-star game of American college players in Japan early this year was quite popular and apparently will be repeated—rugby is played in every part of the world except China.

A background in American football has left its mark on U.S. rugby teams. The features that most awe European fans are the Yanks' size and hard tackling, and the "torpedo pass"—a long overhand pass, a la football, as opposed to the short, underhanded shovel pass more familiar over there.

And the most difficult difference in rules for the average British fan to understand is that in gridiron, when you are tackled, you don't WANT to let go of the ball. In rugby you have to!

So the two sports go on, happily coexisting. There are the physical differences—football linemen love rugby, for instance, because everyone gets to carry the ball—but the philosophical approach is perhaps a far greater difference. Rugby is informal—if you have 15 players, you have a team and if you have 30, you have a game; beer is an integral part of the game, to be enjoyed after, usually before, often at halftime and sometimes even during every match; and while a football game ends when the gun goes off, a rugby match goes on well into the night as the two teams mix and celebrate the day's events.

There is a very old saying that goes, "Soccer is a gentlemen's game played by ruffians; rugby is a ruffians' game played by gentlemen." To which some modern wag, perhaps unfairly, has added, "And football is a ruffians' game played by ruffians."

One modern rugby player—who is best unnamed since he now makes his living playing offensive tackle in the National Football League—put it more succinctly yet:

"I really prefer rugby to football," he said, "because rugby isn't an overly competitive game!"

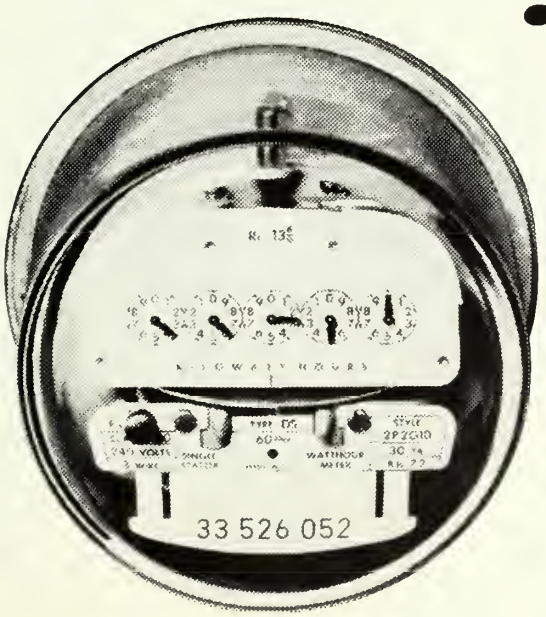
The faster it spins, the more you spend.



The purpose of that rotating disk on your electric meter is to measure the amount of power being used.

The more you're using, the faster it goes. And the higher your monthly bill will be.

Keep that in mind. And use electricity wisely.

Because whenever you waste power, you waste money.

CLEMSON TIGER SPORTS STANDOUTS

Steve Vaughan and Fernando Maynetto, Tennis

Seniors Steve Vaughan, left, from Greensboro, N. C., and Fernando Maynetto of Lima, Peru, will occupy the number one doubles spot for the 1977 Tiger tennis team. The duo reached the finals of the prestigious Southern Intercollegiate in Athens this fall with wins over Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina, and Alabama. Maynetto played for his country's Davis Cup Team for the past two years.

Dean Matthews
Track-Cross Country

A senior from Lakewood, N. J., Dean became the first Clemson Tiger ever to win the Atlantic Coast Conference individual cross country championship. He recorded a 30:27.4 on the 6.2 mile course at the '76 ACC Meet held at the University of Virginia.

Parker Moore, Golf

Parker Moore won the Atlantic Coast Conference individual championship last spring, then finished runner-up in the U. S. Amateur at Los Angeles, beating such linksters as British Open champ Dick Siderowf.

Bill Foley and David Caldwell, Baseball

Power hitters Bill Foley and David Caldwell led Clemson to the ACC and NCAA Atlantic Region crowns in 1976, and both played on the U. S. Baseball Team in World Game competition this past fall. Both are juniors. Foley is from Bowie, Md., and Caldwell hails from Kannapolis, N. C.

Sam Colson, Assistant Track Coach

A member of the 1976 U. S. Olympic Team, Sam finished fifth in javelin competition at Montreal.

The South Carolina Series

'Tis funny, but to the Clemson and South Carolina football teams, the first 10 games of the season were just Saturday primaries. Today is "Election Day" and although the registered Tiger voters will outnumber the Gamecock voters present, that does not assure victory.

It has been a hard campaign for for both teams. The Gamecocks have won more primaries than the Tigers, but with a well-placed point here and there, Clemson could lay claim to possibly six more primary victories.

As is the case every year, the pollsters will go out on the limb and pick a winner, but there probably isn't a single one who would be willing to put a week's pay on the outcome.

The veteran poll takers have more than once seen some intangible pop up and knock a sure prediction into a cocked hat. Those close to the Gamecock organization have indicated privately that they expect to make it two straight over the Tigers, something which hasn't happened since three in a row were carved out in 1968-69-70.

They point to the fact that they claimed a primary over Georgia Tech, Duke and N. C. State while their honorable foe only came out with a draw against the Yellow Jackets and Blue Devils and lost to the Wolfpack. While both foes today lost to Georgia and Wake Forest, the Gamecocks point out that their margin of loss was not as great.

Clemson insiders, on the other hand, know that getting off on the right foot early in the campaign could bring the Tigers one of their greatest victories. So many times this year a "Playboy bobble" has cost Clemson points. Yet, on the other side of the coin, the Tigers know what a final half push can result in. Eight times this year Clemson has outclassed an opponent in the last two periods, but in six of these primaries, early failures have cost the Tigers dearly.

South Carolina found out last week what breakdowns in communications can be. They have also discovered six times this year the seeds of success to winning.

The age old campaigns between the Tigers and Gamecocks have been going on since before the turn of the century. For years the polling place was always in Columbia, which was a distinct disadvantage to the Clemson voters. Even so, the Tigers held a 33-21-3 through the 1959 game.

Since the voting booth has been alternated for the past 16 games, starting in 1960, each team can claim eight triumphs, but not always when it had the advantage of the home booth. But the two are exactly even in this respect.

Each team has won five games at home and each has lost three at home.

There have been some bitter campaigns fought down through the years. They have raged between Billy Laval and Jess Neely, Neely and Rex Enright, Frank Howard and Enright, Howard against Warren Giese, Marvin Bass and Paul Dietzel, Dietzel against Red Parker, and now Parker against Jim Carlen.

Although these standard bearers have had well-planned and finely honed schemes, they didn't always work on Election Day. There is always that unpredictable angle. Somebody on one side or the other will not go with the "straight ticket" everytime, and the results are not as planned.

But regardless, the primaries are over with and today is Election Day in South Carolina. The results will be known as soon as the polls close about 3:45. But post mortems will be held until next November 19.

SWIMMING AT TIGERTOWN

To say that swimming, both men's and women's, is on the upswing is putting it mildly. For in his first year as the head coach of both the Tiger programs, Bob Boettner is going to put a competitive group in the water in both areas.

"We have signed some talented swimmers for each program to enter this year and we think that we are making strides in the right direction." said Boettner.

A native of Paterson, New Jersey, Boettner got his undergraduate degree from East Carolina and after a knee injury ended his football career, he began one of coaching swimming.

Boettner then spent eight seasons as an assistant at North Carolina State in their nationally successful program. After serving as Carl McHugh's assistant last season, he took over both the men's and women's reins this season.

The men's outlook is a blend of only eight returning swimmers and divers from the 1975 contingent with a bevy of young swimmers.

"We signed nine young men who were high school All-Americans and ones we feel will be able to help us immediately," Boettner explained.

Heading the list of the incoming talent is a duo from the West Coast, Brian Lonsdale and Tom Nicolaysen. Lonsdale is a butterflier who hails from England originally but has been swimming for the past two years with the Mission Viejo (California) Swim Club, which has featured such swimmers as Shirley Babashoff.

Nicolaysen, a freestyler who is an excellent prospect in the 200, 500, and 1650 yard events, was a four-time AAU All-American during high school. The talented Santa Clara, California native has been swimming with the prestigious De Anza Swim Club.

Other names that will become familiar to Tiger fans are Rich Bader, Peter Barkas, John Hogan, Bob Buresh, Don Berlin, Mike Bowley, and Kevin Davis. This talented group should fit right in with such returnees as Paul Kelker and Arby Dickert.

The women's program will take on much the same look as the men's in the area of inexperience.

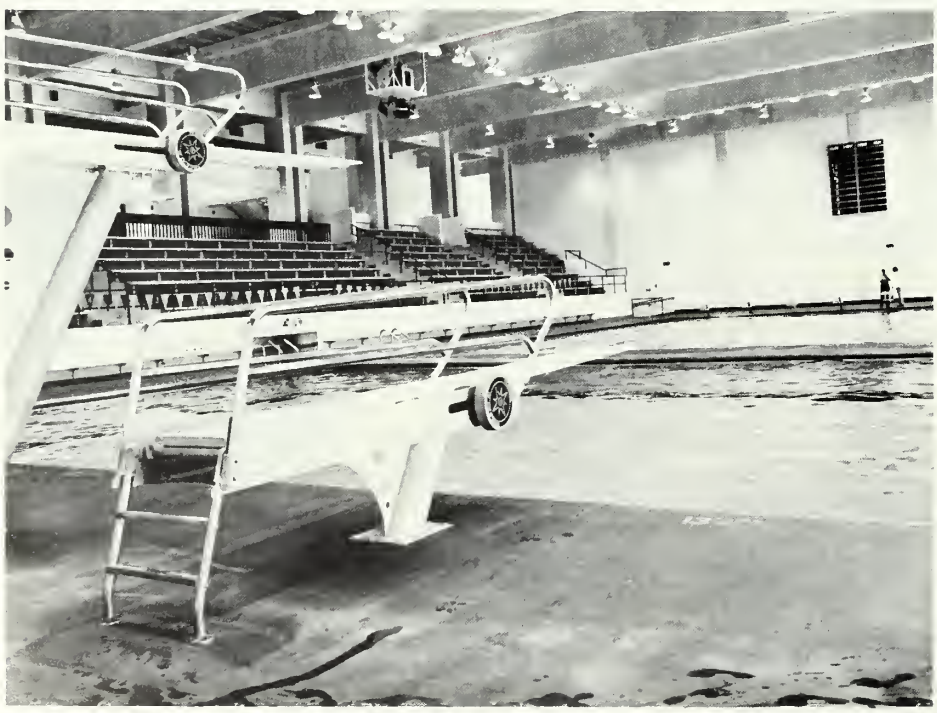
"We have some promising women recruits, such as Janice Roschen and Chris Daggitt, but just like the men, they will have to pick up some experience."

Bob Boettner, Clemson Swimming Coach

Boettner explained that in swimming, age is not as much of a factor as in some other sports, but there is no better teacher than experience.

"There is nothing like having been there before and that is what we are going to lack for a while."

Swimming is on the move at Tigertown and Bob Boettner is leading it in the right direction.



Clemson's swimming teams occupy this modern facility in Fike Recreation Center. There is a diving well with four boards, two one-meter and two three-meter platforms, and an eight-lane pool which is equipped with a Colorado Timing System. A spectator area will accommodate approximately 650 persons.

The name of the game is quality.

A quality team welcomes the toughest challenge to prove how good it is. So does Pabst. We've been brewing America's quality beer since 1844, which gives us the confidence to make this challenge of our own: taste and compare Pabst Blue Ribbon quality and flavor with any other beer. One glass and you'll know that Blue Ribbon quality means the best tasting beer you can get.

ARA-Slater's philosophy is a unique, systematic approach designed to achieve our most important goal: STUDENT SATISFACTION. This concept is a result of our experience with millions of students. We have the flexibility to understand your needs and the capability to satisfy them.

At Clemson, ARA demonstrates practical, new methods for providing nourishing, well-balanced meals to athletes, students and staff. Our corporate and regional specialists give ARA's dining service manager expert advice in planning menus, purchasing goods, controlling waste, utilizing labor. The support of this team effort is carried out daily in Schilletter Hall and Harcombe Commons, and at the Clemson House Buffeteria. It is our desire to serve students what they want and to accommodate them by providing this same efficient service for special events or festive holiday meals.

We're here to provide the type of service that will benefit the entire school and community. THAT'S WHAT WE THINK A DINING SERVICE IS ALL ABOUT.

They are doctors, lawyers, teachers, farmers, businesspersons, military strategists, public servants. They have a lot going for them. They have an opportunity to grow. And their roots are here on this campus. They are former students of this institution in the foothills of South Carolina.

Clemson University has been involved in providing one of this nation's most vital resources since 1893. Yet, the educational capabilities of Clemson continue to mount, and the University has a vibrant incentive to demonstrate its ability, and an objective yardstiek to measure it.

As Clemson University eontinues its eontribution to the development of this state, it remains an indispensable part of its future. Combine eapacity, ability and opportunity and you conelude that potential is virtually unlimited.

It is, with your help. Graduates, former students and friends of Clemson are not only a source of pride for the University but a monumental strength in undergirding its educational programs with annual investments in the institution through the Clemson Alumni Loyalty Fund and other development opportunities at the University.

But greater ehallenges lie ahead. Knowledge has multiplied beyond comprehension; the domestic and world situations have beeome unwieldy and precarious. To make sure performance measures up to potential, Clemson University utilizes wisely and frugally every source of aid possible from all sectors of a free society — private citizens and foundations, business and industrial organizations, state and federal governments.

Now, more than ever before, Clemson needs you, your interest, and your investment in education. Now, more than ever before, won't you consider what you can do for Clemson?

THE BAND PLAYS A BIG PART IN TODAY'S EVENTS

Football players have their early two-a-days. Auburn's marching band members have five-a-days.

"For a week or two weeks before the beginning of classes, we start at 8 a.m. and get through at 8 p.m.," said the War Eagle band director, Dr. Bill Walls. "To use the football coaches' terms, we start off with five-a-days and taper off to three-a-days."

Those halftime band programs that keep the ember of the game glowing while the teams rest don't just happen. They require extensive planning and practice—just as the game does.

Gene Thrailkill, Oklahoma's band director, estimates that his charges put in 1,500 man hours a week to produce Saturday's seven-minute show.

There are vivid similarities between the band's preparation and the team's preparation.

For instance, you might find Washington's band director, Bill Bissell, studying his group's performance on film. Only difference in filming the Husky band and the Husky team is that the band movie has sound.

"Maybe we thought something was effective, but we can see from the camera that it wasn't effective," Bissell explained. "The next time we are thinking about charting something similar to that, we can upgrade it.

"And we can say, 'Remember 10 years ago when we did something at the USC game?' We can look at the film and maybe use it in a different way."

Bissell—who is known as "Coach" around the Washington Athletic Department—believes the band can have an indirect bearing on the motivation of the team. The band fires up the crowd and the crowd fires up the team.

He speaks in athletic metaphors. "We have two or three traditional numbers, as most bands do, but we change up each week," Bissell said. "It's similar to athletics in that we change our offense and defense each week."

Bands recruit members, just as football teams do.

"We have a jump on some other schools in recruiting because this is where people come to watch football," Oklahoma's Thrailkill said, sounding very much the recruiter. "There's no doubt Oklahoma plays big time football, and it makes a trip to the Cotton Bowl every year to play Texas."

"We very definitely recruit," said Washington's Bissell. "We want good musicians. I try to get around to many high schools. I show the films and tell them about our program for the year. You're only as good as the type of people in your group."

Maryland's band director, John Wakefield, is attempting to build interest in marching band by hosting a high school band day competition on campus. He admits that marching band isn't as popular an activity in his area as in some others.

Scholarship availability varies drastically from school to school.

"We don't promise anybody anything to come," Auburn's Walls said. "We like them to feel they're in our band because they want to be, not because they're paid to be. But if a student stays in the band and is punctual and dependable, he'll eventually get a scholarship. But a few people have been through our band and not received one."

"We have about 60 band scholarships that average $200 apiece," Oklahoma's Thrailkill said. "This is a small amount, but we just don't have the money to put into it."

Washington doesn't give scholarships. Neither does Maryland, according to Wakefield—except for a scholarship to the feature twirler which is financed by the apple growers of five states.

Sizes of bands vary, too. Oklahoma's 260-member band marches 238 at any one time. Auburn has over 250, Maryland has 175, and Washington, 154.

Bandmasters differ on the subject of majorettes, too.

Oklahoma has only a featured twirler. "We can only travel 260 people," Thrailkill said. "If we add a girls' line in front, we have to cut that many instrumentalists."

There's another reason Oklahoma has no line of majorettes. "Anytime you put girls out front of a band, and you're on national TV, that's all you see," Thrailkill said. "You can't do anything about it. The TV people can shoot what they want to.

"They'll get locked onto one girl, and there are 250 people behind her who have worked just as hard as she did.

"We feel that if we put on an interesting show, we don't need majorettes. The marching band is entertainment, but we feel the musical aspect is more important than the visual aspect because people come to the stadium to hear a band. We believe the musical aspect is the most important thing, and everything else is frosting on the cake."

Washington has two majorettes. Bissell echoes Thrailkill. "On TV coverage, 99 per cent of the camera operators are men, and they zero in on the young ladies, and the rest of the people get left out." Financial considerations also figure into the Washington situation, he said.

Auburn, on the other hand, has eight majorettes and one alternate. The positions are so popular that tryouts aren't announced except by word of mouth. "We don't publicize it because we get enough without it," Walls said.

An average of 50 girls a year seek the nine jobs—and the incumbents must try out anew each year.

They are judged on looks, dancing and twirling ability. "A young lady may not be the best twirler or the best dancer, but maybe she has the best combination," Walls said.

Not only is a girl selected for her performance in the tryouts, but her dependability is checked through her high school band director. "We take two weeks to decide," Walls said.

The alternate gets off the bench, as the football coach would say. "I don't think a year has gone by that the alternate didn't march two or three times because of sprained legs, flu, etc.," Walls said.

"We have a rule that majorettes can't be married, and over the Christmas holidays one year two of them got married. That put the alternate in the bowl game and still left us one short."

Maryland's niche in the majorette question is somewhere between Auburn's and Oklahoma's. "We don't call them majorettes," Wakefield said. "They're twirlers, and we have four."

A marching band represents a sizable hunk of money. "A uniform is $150 and an instrument $200 to $1,000," said Oklahoma's Thrailkill. "Multiply that by 160, and you've got something."

It cost $65,000 for the Oklahoma band to attend the Orange Bowl, he said—"and we probably spent less than bands that have been down there the past few years."

The economic pinch has affected many bands, and some are making fewer road trips.

Bands put in long hours for a few days before the football season begins, but later include rehearsal as a normal part of the day's schedule.

"We go nine hours a day for four days before classes start," Oklahoma's Thrailkill said. "It separates the men

JIM THORPE

Man and Legend

by Tobin Spirer

For a man who won so often, Jim Thorpe was a loser of heroic proportions.

It's best to speak in hyperbole when talking of Thorpe. A bona fide superstar in a time when sports immortals were coming of age, Thorpe was an Olympic Games decathlon and pentathlon winner, All American collegiate football player, professional football star, major league baseball player, boxer, wrestler, swimmer, a golfer who shot in the low 70's and a bowler who rolled in the 200's. It's not sure what else Thorpe excelled in, though doubtless if it had anything at all to do with running, or throwing, or kicking or simply being better than anyone else, Thorpe would be the first across.

He was born a halfbreed Indian in 1888, an Oklahomaian of a half-Irish, half-Indian father and a mixed French and Indian mother. Fittingly enough he was named Wa-Tho-Huck, or Bright Path in the language of the once great Sac and the Fox. Apparently he was destined for larger-than-life things from the start, following up a heritage as grandson to Chief Black Hawk with classical beginnings including bear trapping, hiking and his first deer at the age of ten.

Thorpe is probably best remembered for the 1912 Olympic Games at Stockholm, Sweden, where he crushed the pick of the world's athletes in the decathlon and pentathlon. He set a point total that stood as a record for 20 years, setting marks in the running, hurdling, high jumping, pole vaulting and weight events that were to remain untouched until 1930. He came home from the Stockholm Games a hero—just one year later he was a bum.

An investigation by the Amateur Athletic Union at the time found that the big Indian had played baseball three years earlier, taking a hefty $15 a week for his services at Rocky Mount, North Carolina. Despite the obvious evidence that scores of college athletes had been doing the same thing under assumed names and that Thorpe was as innocent as his Indian birthright ("I didn't play for the money," he wrote afterwards. "I was not wise in the ways of the world . . . I was simply an Indian schoolboy and did not know I was doing wrong."), the AAU prosecuted, stripping his records and neatly wrapping his medals for postage back to Sweden.

That's the story of the tragedy of the man—his glory was football. It has been said that Thorpe on the football field did everything but blow up the ball. Twice selected an All-American by Walter Camp, he started at a tiny school in Central Pennsylvania known as Carlisle Indian Institute. One story has it that Thorpe was first spotted by an assistant coach during a pick-up game between Carlisle's tailoring class (Thorpe's career then, or so he thought) and the carpentry students.

Told to report to Head Coach Glenn S. Warner, the Carlisle football coach who was to become one of the game's immortals, Thorpe put on a show Warner was to remember the rest of his life. One of the coach's favorite drills was to send a ball carrier from one goal line to another through a gauntlet of linemen and backs spaced about five feet apart. No one had ever gone the distance—until Jim Thorpe. As the story goes, Thorpe made it from goal line to goal line, infuriating Warner who screamed, "This is tackling practice." He ordered Thorpe to try it again—with predictably identical results. With a grin on his beefy face, Thorpe handed the ball to the apoplectic coach, adding that "nobody tackles Jim."

Thorpe's career was launched. Although he was used sparingly in 1907, his first year with the Carlisle varsity, the Indian got his chance at Franklin Field in Philadelphia against Pennsylvania. Subbing for an injured player early in the game, Thorpe carried on his second play 75 yards for a touchdown. The Carlisle Indians defeated Harvard, Minnesota and Chicago among the college football giants of 1907, losing only to Princeton and evolving into what Warner was to call the greatest team he ever coached.

In 1908 Thorpe was the starting halfback from the first scrimmage. It was he who scored the touchdown that tied an unbeaten Pennsylvania team and kicked three field goals in a 12-5 triumph over Penn State. Tiny Carlisle won 10, lost 2 and tied 1 that season as Thorpe made Walter Camp's third team All-American.

The football season of 1908 was Thorpe's last for Carlisle until 1911. He left school after the 1909 track and field season and didn't return until the fall two years later. In between times Thorpe was to take his ill-fated voyage with the Rocky Mount semi-pro baseball leagues, earning a pittance there only to lose much more at the hands of the AAU following the 1912 Olympics.

After his two-year hiatus—including some spectacular single-handed track and field victories over powerhouse Eastern schools—Thorpe returned to Carlisle for the football season of 1911. Back at the insistence of Warner (one could imagine his grief when the Indian left in 1909), Thorpe was to have his finest collegiate year ever, climaxed by his selection to Camp's first team All-American squad. That year, against a Harvard club that dominated football in the early 1900's the way such teams as Notre Dame, Texas, Oklahoma and Nebraska were to do in later years, he played what most felt was his greatest game. Coach Percy Haughton's Harvard team was unbeaten in eight games when they from the boys—or the strong band persons from the weak band persons." After that initial struggle, band members settle into four to six hours of rehearsal a week.

Auburn's band members might be seen marching with their eyes shut. "We work on eight steps in five yards," Walls explained. "Everything we do has to do with that. They can't look down. Sometimes they practice doing it with their eyes closed."

Despite the elaborate preparations, all doesn't aways go well. Once the Auburn band and another band were lined up on the field to play together. "But our drum major had a mental lapse," Walls recalls. "He gave the signal for our band to do an about face, and we marched off and left one band on the field for television."

The appearance of two bands at a game shouldn't mean competition between them, Wall believes. "You're out there to represent your school through entertainment," he said. "It's not a contest. It's entertainment. One thing we talk about is that we aren't competing. We just like people to leave the stadium and say they saw two good bands."

But doesn't a crack performance by one band spur the other? "I hate to say it, but I guess it does," Walls commented.

Washington's Bissell figures a few good-natured pokes at the opposing team never hurt anyone.

The beginning of Washington State's fight song is identical to the beginning of Minnesota's fight song. Washington's band struck up, and Washington's fans rose to their feet—only to have to listen to the rest of Minnesota's song.

Once Bissell's band was forming BEARS on the field at halftime of the California game — but it came out BEERS.

Bissell's band members enjoy surprising the "coach," too. He lives in Bremerton, an hour's ferryboat ride from Seattle. "On several occasions the band has gotten up and caught the 6 a.m. boat to Bremerton and serenaded me and the other passengers on the return trip," he said.

"That makes me very proud."

FIELD POSITION

Opens up options on offense

Football is not played on a blackboard. Or in a playbook. It is a game matching your eleven against their eleven on a field that is an exact rectangle, of 100 yards in length and 53 yards one foot in width, yet changes measurements every down.

How can an exact set of measurements not be exact? Step on the field against their eleven and you'll understand. You receive the kickoff on the one yard line and dash to a touchdown—the goal, and your target-distance, was 99 yards. Start a march on your own two yard line, first down, and the view changes. Only a semi-miracle would get you 98 yards and your true goal now is four to seven yards, in order to set you up for a solid second down. Place yourself on their nine and you are in 19 yard territory, because now you must include the precious end zone area.

Or let's just say you are that most influential person with a 50 yard line seat. You're in the middle of the field, right? Yes and no. The middle is a moving center, where the ball is, and more often it is closer to either 20 than midfield. And besides, nobody ever scored a touchdown on the 50 yard line.

Many years ago an architect named Ladd proposed a perfectly round stadium seating at least 200,000 and a field that would ride on underground rollers. After each down the field would turn a few degrees, making a full circle every 30 minutes. In that way, every person in the park would sit astride the 50 yard line four times. A great man, Ladd, although nobody bought the idea. He should be ennobled for another reason, too—he designed a press box like a railroad car on a monorail high on the rim of the circular stadium that would follow the field as it turned, thus keeping the exalted scribes and TV analysts on the 50 yard line from kickoff to final gun.

But enough of fantasy. Let us get to our task of scoring some touchdowns.

Play selection is based on field position. Some coaches believe in ball control, others in a free-wheeling offense, and some who don't last very long, stick to gimmickry and trick plays leading to total panic. But there is room for all three philosophies—at the proper time. A trick play from midfield, with second down and one to go, may be a ripper; the same play on your own 11, second and nine, most likely will become a bummer.

Bud Wilkinson, whose Oklahoma teams scored 47 straight victories for a record never threatened, divides the field into three-down areas and four-down areas. From goal line to 50 is three down area—meaning you have three opportunities to make a first down and kick on fourth. Then comes a middle area—15 yards from the 50 to their 35, when many factors could change a three down area into four: time of game, defensive setups, weather, a play that works for you, an outstanding field goal kicker, the score at the time, etc. Next you reach the 35, and from there to the goal is four-down area. You want a touchdown although that fourth down met Carlisle and Thorpe before a packed stadium of 25,000 at Cambridge, Massachusetts. The Ivy Leaguers were so confident that they started their second team and quickly scored a first period touchdown, then the conversion for a 6-0 lead (at the time TD's counted for five). Thorpe wasn't doing much running because of sore legs, but he still managed to kick field goals of 23, 43 and 37 yards to guide Carlisle to a 9-6 halftime lead.

Harvard, royally humiliated at trailing a tiny Indian trade school, soon marched to an early second half, 15-9, lead behind a touchdown, conversion and field goal. Here's where Thorpe came in. Despite leg injuries he carried the ball nine straight times, ripping across the bigger and heavier Harvard line on his last possession to tie the score at 15-15. Another drive he engineered took Carlisle to the Harvard 43 in the late minutes of the fourth quarter. With just seconds left and three field goals already to his credit, Thorpe booted a 49-yard ace that clinched an 18-15 Carlisle victory. Thorpe had scored all the points for the Indians.

Not content with Harvard, Thorpe went on the next year to capture the Army team of 1912, a squad which included a cadet named Dwight D. Eisenhower. Army had heard of Thorpe by that time and, in the parlance of the game, were "laying for him." It didn't help. At the start of the second half the grandson of infantry fighter and leader Chief Blackhawk took the kickoff and returned 90 yards for what appeared to be a touchdown. The run, however, was nullified by a penalty against Carlisle, giving Army the ball for another kickoff. Unfazed, Thorpe did it all again, this time running back 95 yards through a hapless West Point club to touch the ball down again in the end zone. Total run for a single touchdown: 185 yards. Final score: Carlisle 27, Army 7.

Carlisle (Thorpe was captain) went 12-1-1 that year with Thorpe scoring 25 of his team's 60 touchdowns and kicking goals for a total of 198 points. Several years later, when asked about his greatest football thrills, Thorpe was to say: "Thrills were mostly hard work for me. That's what I remember most about them. But I did get a kick out of running back two straight kickoffs for touchdowns against Army in 1912 and kicking those four field goals against Harvard to win, 18-15, in 1911."

The Carlisle immortal.

If there was ever any criticism of Thorpe the football player, it was probably his alleged laziness that drew the most fire. An absolute natural, he tended to put out only when he had to, drawing screams sometimes when his loping, easygoing manner cost points. Still he was the most versatile athlete of his era, passing well when the forward pass was young, sweeping off the ends, slashing off tackles or splintering the center of the line and kicking with the accuracy of a nine-iron.

After leaving his alma mater, Thorpe played professional football with the Canton Bulldogs before making his entry into pro baseball beginning with the New York Giants, then the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Braves before winding up in 1928 in Akron, Ohio, at the age of 40. Thorpe could have been a great baseball player too, if not for a problem hitting the curve and a persistent clash of wills with the Giants' manager, John McGraw.

Thorpe liked baseball (although he never overwhelmed the game, he was a spectacularly flashy performer), but football was his first love. While he was still battling with McGraw and the Giants, Thorpe in 1915 accepted an offer of $500 a game to coach and play for the Canton Bulldogs. In 1920 the American Football Association was organized and Thorpe appointed president. The league included such teams as the Bulldogs, the Staleys, the Akron Professionals, the Massillon Tigers, and the Chicago Cardinals. Thorpe played for most of them at one time or another until 1929, when at the age of 41, he finally played his last football in a game between the Cardinals and the Bears.

Thorpe's decline had been going on for years—almost since the day he left Carlisle. Never prudent with his money and with a second wife and four children to support, Thorpe wandered through a variety of depression jobs, finally winding up as a feature photo in the papers, working a shovel for $4 a day.

Aside from occasional "what's he doing now" stories and a moment of glory in the vice-presidential box at the Los Angeles 1932 Olympics, Thorpe disappeared, resurrected for his last hurrah in 1950 when the Associated Press conducted a poll of the nation's sportswriters, naming him the greatest athlete and football player of the first half of the twentieth century.

Thorpe is dead now, gone in 1953 of a heart attack at the age of 64. His mark is still around, though, the object of a legend as the greatest all-around athlete his country had ever known.

So in quite another way, Jim Thorpe is still very much alive. He won't die until someone can honestly claim he can punt a football 90 yards, or has kicked a 79 yard field goal or run 185 yards for a touchdown on two consecutive plays. Until then Bright Path of the Sac and the Fox, the Indian of the bushy hair and the perfect body, is staying with us.

IPTAY--Special Recognition

During the fiscal year of 1975-76, contributions made to the Clemson IPTAY Club showed an increase over the previous 12 months. This was the 12th consecutive year that an increase had been noted.

Altogether, $915,630 were contributed by some 8,977 individuals. This represented over 101 per cent of the goal originally set. South Carolina raised 101 percent of its goal, North Carolina 102 and Georgia 104.

This was the first time that over $900,000 were realized, but it was the fifth straight year that over a half million dollars came in. Every penny received through IPTAY since its beginning in 1934 has been used for athletic scholarships only. Sixteen men's and women's sports now benefit from IPTAY.

On the following pages we have listed those people and business organizations, who are being recognized by their permission, for their interest and continued support of IPTAY.

Clemson and Stevens...Partners in textiles.

Clemson alumni, students, and faculty are important to Stevens. Tiger alumni continue to help keep Stevens a recognized leader in the international textile market place. Clemson students help Stevens plants near the campus maintain high levels of productivity. Stevens and the textile industry at large benefit each year from the research and recommendations of Clemson faculty and graduate assistants. Clemson and Stevens . . . partners on the campus and in the plants.

CLEMSON ALMA MATER

Where the Blue Ridge yawns its greatness
Where the Tigers play;
Here the sons of dear old Clemson,
Reign supreme alway.

CHORUS

Dear old Clemson, we will triumph
And with all our might
That the Tiger's roar may echo
O'er the mountain height.

Words by A. C. Corcoran, '19
Music by Dr. Hugh McGarity

Total Capability Contractor

Civil — Mechanical — Electrical — Contract Maintenance

The new Foote Mineral Company Refining Facility in Kings Mountain, N. C.

Built with P-R-I-D-E
by

YEARGIN CONSTRUCTION COMPANY

A maze of tanks, piping, rotary kilns, steel, plumbing, air conditioning, electrical, insulation and instrumentation work make up the new Lithium Carbonate Refining facility YEARGIN built for Foote Mineral Company at Kings Mountain, North Carolina, all with YEARGIN forces.

Contract Maintenance is our specialty also. We'll supply your needs with personnel for continuous maintenance and fluctuate the crews for turn-around shutdowns. Whether it's 1, 100 or 1,000 craftsmen you need, call on YEARGIN. We have the P-R-I-D-E and experience on textile, chemical, metal working, paper, rubber, precipitator, and boiler installations to do your job.

When you think construction, think YEARGIN. We build it fast; we save you time and money; and our quality of workmanship and meeting of schedule requirements is second to none.
